1. The airfield, about $1 \times 1\frac{1}{2}$ km, was 1 km west of Sarabuz ($34^{\circ}0'N/45^{\circ}E$), Crimean ASSR, along the road to Yevpatroiya ($33^{\circ}22'E/45^{\circ}13'N$).
2. Three large wooden hangars were on the southwestern edge of the field.
3. The airfield was occupied by:
 - a. Six to eight twin-engine Douglas planes with which almost no flying was done.
 - b. About eight biplanes which apparently were used for regular courier flights.

Comment:

This is the first post-war report on the Sarabuz airfield, on which war-time records are available. The field is probably an improved airport with a runway. The reported occupation indicates that the field is being used as a commercial airfield, possibly also as a D.S.S.V. training field. Further reports are required for clarification.
